

Ski Jumping World Cup : Ursa Bogataj takes off under the sun in Courchevel

First victory in Courchevel for the rising star of Slovenian ski jumping Ursa Bogataj, after her double win in Poland during the first stage of the Summer Grand Prix of ski jumping.

The new Slovenian nugget narrowly won ahead of Austrian jumper Marita Kramer. The winner of last winter season's Crystal Globe, Slovenian Nika Kriznar, took third place.

To be noted, the very good performances of the two French jumpers Julia Clair and Joséphine Panier, who finished respectively 9th and 13th of this particularly competitive competition, as 8 of the best jumpers of last winter were present today under the sun of Courchevel.

A great first event which is heartwarming after the cancellation of the competition last year due to Covid.

The 30th Grand Prix de Courchevel continues tomorrow with the men's event. The public will be able to cheer on three young French jumpers, all from Courchevel!

No doubt that Valentin Joubert, Mathis Contamine, but also Alessandro Batby, all three French team champions, will be keen to perform at home.
